

Director Engagement and International Plant Health

Dr Sophie Peterson is the Director of the Pacific Engagement and International Plant Health section. She is the first point of contact for Pacific Island Countries and Territories (PICTs) on plant health matters. A key part of her role is connecting people with the right experts and support.

The Pacific Engagement and International Plant Health section coordinates and supports our engagement in:

- International Plant Protection Convention (IPPC)
- Pacific Plant Protection Organisation (PPPO)
- Asia and Pacific Plant Protection Commission (APPPC).

They also:

- act as Australia's contact in the IPPC
- manage Australia's involvement in international plant health initiatives
- support Australia's representatives to international fora
- deliver the International Plant Health Surveillance Program in Solomon Islands, Papua New Guinea and Timor-Leste
- put in place initiatives to improve the surveillance and diagnostic capabilities of near neighbour countries.

Australian Chief Plant Protection Officer (ACPPO)

Our ACPPO is Dr Rosa Crnov. She represents and advises the Australian Government on Australia's plant health status and its supporting systems.

The ACPPO is Australia's official contact point for the International Plant Protection Convention and the Commission of Phytosanitary Measures and represents Australia at the Plant Health Quadrilaterals and the Euphresco network.

The ACPPO leads our work on strengthening regional plant health and biosecurity systems as part of the department's Pacific Engagement Program.

The ACPPO represents Australia in the Pacific Plant Protection Organisation (PPPO) and the Asia and Pacific Plant Protection Commission (APPPC).
