

Below are links to other Australian Government departments that have a responsibility for food issues as well as state and territory government agencies, research corporations and national food associations. Also available are links to websites that provide information on accessing grant and program information specific to the food industry as well as more general operational assistance.

[expand all]

Australian Government

State/territory contacts

Australian Capital Territory

CBR Business

ACT Health

New South Wales

Department of Primary Industries

Department of Trade and Investment

NSW Food Authority

Northern Territory

Department of Industry, Tourism and Trade

Department of Health

Queensland

Department of Energy and Public Works

Queensland Health

South Australia

Department of Primary Industries and Regions \(PIRSA\)

SA Health

Tasmania

Department of State Growth

Department of Natural Resources and Environment Tasmania

Department of Health

Victoria

Department of Energy, Environment and Climate Action

Agriculture Victoria

Department of Health

Western Australia

Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development
Department of Health

National food associations

Research and development

Rural Research and Development Corporations (RDCs)
Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research
Centre of Food Safety Centre
CSIRO

Grant information

Other

Australian Consumer Law
Australian National Residue Survey

The Australian National Residue Survey (NRS) is a program conducted by the National Office of Food Safety located within the department. The primary function of the NRS is to monitor chemical residues and environmental contaminants in the products of participating industries.

National Food Industry Strategy (NFIS)

The National Food Industry Strategy was a five-year, $114.4 million program that concluded on 30 June 2007.

The industry-led company formed to implement most of the program, National Food Industry Strategy Limited, was formally de-registered on 3 April 2008.

Information about the concluded initiative is archived at the National Library of Australia's Trove site.

Source: <https://www.agriculture.gov.au/agriculture-land/farm-food-drought/food/links>