

Whilst Australia is a food secure nation, our food system is facing a range of challenges. To respond to these challenges, and ensure Australia remains a consistent provider of safe, quality and nutritious food, the Australian Government has committed $3.5 million to develop Feeding Australia: A National Food Security Strategy. The strategy will be developed with farmers and fishers, industry and the community.

The strategy seeks to set a vision for a sustainable, resilient and secure food system that serves all Australians from producers to consumers. It will support Australia's role as a trusted exporter of food, contributing to the food security of our trading partners.

Explore the links below to learn more about our food system, the challenges it is facing and opportunities to be involved in the development of Feeding Australia: A National Food Security Strategy.

Learn about the challenges facing Australia's food system and the government's response.

News and updates

Keep informed about the development of the strategy with news and latest updates. To register for updates please email foodsecurity@aff.gov.au.

Source: <https://www.agriculture.gov.au/agriculture-land/farm-food-drought/food/national-food-security-strategy>