

The Southern Regional Forest Agreement (RFA) is one of three RFAs in New South Wales. The Australian and New South Wales governments signed the Southern RFA on 24 April 2001.

The Southern RFA was varied on 28 November 2018 with an extension until 26 August 2039, as it has proven to be a strong and effective framework for the sustainable management of Southern RFA region's forests. The extension was formalised following assessment, public consultation and independent review.

The Southern RFA now has a 20-year rolling life, so at any point in time the Southern RFA will be between 15 and 20 years from expiring, depending on the satisfactory completion of the five-yearly reviews.

Extending the Southern RFA gives long-term surety of resource access for industry, ecologically sustainable management and use of forested areas and an extensive system of conservation reserves.

The Southern RFA variation includes two Annexures: Annexure 1 is the RFA marked up; Annexure 2 is a 'clean' version of the RFA as varied without the mark up.
